Dr. Dalton served as the Director of the Gianna Syracuse Center for Women's Health and Fertility, simultaneously practicing Primary Care Medicine in the inner city of Rochester in a practice affiliated with a pregnancy resource center. Moving back to Chicago in 2018, she continues practicing Primary Care telemedicine, volunteers with local pregnancy resource centers, and is a GHF advocate.

Mary-Louise Hengesbaugh serves as the chair of ICE-PAC and its initiative Girls' Health First. She is a former Miss Wisconsin and former Catholic Archdiocese of Chicago Respect Life Director under Cardinal Francis George. She also authored a book in titled "Standing with Courage: Confronting Tough Decisions About Sex."

Girls Health First is a voice in Springfield for under-aged girls.

We are a bipartisan grassroots movement of women, teens, physicians, students, attorneys, educators, and entrepreneurs. Girls' Health First stands by our position that the repeal of the Parental Notice of Abortion Act puts girls and women at risk. We urge you show your support, get empowered, and become an advocate for vulnerable under-aged girls of Illinois.

I look forward to seeing you at this special reception.
